DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC §§ 102 and 103

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by WO 94/26361 (Usui).

Regarding claims 1-10, Figures 1 and 3 of Usui show a racquet with the recited enlarged and generally oval string holes.

4. Claims 11 and 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Usui as applied above in view of U.S. Patent Number 6,527,656 (Cheng et al., hereinafter Cheng).

Art Unit: 3711

Regarding claim 11, the use of grommet assemblies in racquets is old and well-known in the art. As such, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the racquet art to provide a grommet assembly with the Usui racquet in which a soft rubber strip is used in combination with an harder outer strip in view of Cheng in order to better dampen shock and vibration. See Cheng at Figure 4 and column 5, line 3 through column 6, line 20.

Regarding claim 13, Figure 1 of Cheng also shows that racquet frames are well-known in the art to have throat bridges.

5. Claim 12 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Usui and Cheng as applied above in view of U.S. Patent Number 5,993,337 (Janes et al., hereinafter Janes).

In view of the fact that each enlarged string hole of Usui accommodates more than one string segment, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to provide plural holes with a single grommet to reduce the possibility of grommet failure. See Figure 3 of Janes.

Allowable Subject Matter

6. Claim 14 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

7. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
